Statement of Principles, Policies, Programme and Organisation

Particulars furnished under paragraph 2 of the Registration of Political Parties (Furnishing of Additional Particulars) Order, 1992

About this statement

Nallaatchi Katchi was formed on 18 October 2026 at Pudukudi, Tirunelveli District, and adopted its constitution of 25 pages the same day (Founding Meeting Minutes, NK/FM/01). This statement sets out, in the order the Commission asks for them, the principles on which the Party is based, its policies, aims and objects, its programme and activities, its main organs, and its relationship with the electors. Every statement is tied to the article of the constitution on which it rests.

(a) Principles on which the Party is based

1. Allegiance to the Constitution of India
   The Party bears true faith and allegiance to the Constitution of India as by law established, and to the principles of socialism, secularism and democracy, and upholds the sovereignty, unity and integrity of India. This allegiance is written word for word into Article 3 of its constitution, as Section 29A(5) requires. (Article 3)

2. மக்கள் பணத்திற்கு மக்கள் கணக்கு: the people's account of the people's money
   Every rupee of public money must be traceable by the public: what was spent, on what, by whom and when. The Party applies the same standard to itself. Its own accounts, elections and decisions are open to its members. (Articles 4(3)(a), 12)

3. Three aims: Nallaatchi, Pasumai, Valarchi
   Good governance (transparent, accountable and corruption-free administration); green development (protecting rivers, tanks, forests and farmland, and supporting sustainable agriculture); and inclusive growth (fair access to welfare, education, health care, jobs and rural infrastructure, without discrimination). (Article 4(3))

4. Two standards for how politics is practised
   Accountable politics (பொறுப்பாட்சி): those who hold power, inside and outside the Party, answer for its use. Dignity (மனித மரியாதை): every person is treated with equal respect, whatever their caste, religion, sex, language or means. These are standards of conduct, not additional constitutional aims. (Articles 4(1), 5(1))

5. Power limited by rules, including the Party's own
   Every post is elected and held for three years; the top three posts are limited to two consecutive terms; close relatives may not hold two key posts together; and an office bearer can be removed only by a vote that also elects a vetted successor. (Articles 8(17), 8(18), 9(1), 13(9))

6. Decisions taken close to the people
   Each matter is decided at the lowest level of the Party able to decide it. A higher body may override a local decision only for a stated reason, in writing, and that decision can be challenged. (Article 7(21))

7. Clean political finance
   Voluntary contributions only; no foreign contributions; cash limited to Rs. 2,000 per donor in a year; a numbered receipt for every contribution; bank accounts in the Party's name operated by two signatories; and an annual audit. (Article 12)

8. Service without patronage
   Help to citizens with petitions, government schemes and the Right to Information Act never depends on joining the Party, donating or supporting a candidate. The Party never promises a particular government outcome. (Article 4(4))

9. Evidence before allegation
   Every policy and public statement follows a published method: collect evidence, verify numbers, dates and the responsible authority, study the root cause, draft, have a second person check facts and legal risk, publish with sources and date, and correct openly when wrong. (Party editorial method)

10. Non-violence and the rule of law
    The Party does not promote or take part in violence. Weapons, private "protection" groups, settling private disputes, imposing fines and pressuring officials in the Party's name are forbidden. (Articles 4(2), 4(5))

11. Future generations
    In decisions on the environment, public finance and natural resources, the Party weighs the interests of those not yet born. (Article 4(6))

(b) Policies, aims and objects

Article 4

1. The aims of the Party, in keeping with the Constitution of India, are set out in Article 4(3):
   a. Nallaatchi (good governance): transparent, accountable and corruption-free administration, with a public account of how public money is spent;
   b. Pasumai (green development): protecting rivers, tanks, forests and farmland, and supporting sustainable agriculture;
   c. Valarchi (inclusive growth): fair access to welfare schemes, education, health care, jobs and rural infrastructure for every citizen, without discrimination;
   d. helping citizens use their legal rights, including grievance petitions and the Right to Information Act, 2005;
   e. contesting elections through peaceful, democratic and constitutional means.

2. Policies are developed by the evidence-based method described above. The Party's public research library lists subjects under five headings (good governance, green development, inclusive growth, accountable politics and dignity). A subject in the library is work in progress; it becomes a Party position only after evidence, legal basis and costs have been studied and the position has been approved through the Party's democratic process.

(c) Programme, functions and activities

1. Citizen service. Help citizens, free of charge, to write and follow up grievance petitions, apply for government schemes and certificates, and use the Right to Information Act.

2. Ambasamudram first. Work, for now, only in Ambasamudram Assembly Constituency, beginning with the pollution and care of the Thamirabarani river, drinking water, and the basic problems every household faces.

3. Public record of local problems. Maintain a public, village-by-village record of problems, the authority responsible, and what has been done.

4. Public works audit. Obtain details of public works in each panchayat through the Right to Information Act and publish them in a form people can understand; prepare citizens to ask questions in Grama Sabha and ward meetings.

5. Organisation. Build Village and Ward Units and Constituency Committees as membership grows, and record members' public service in the Field Service Register (Articles 7(15), 7(19)).

6. Elections. Contest local body elections in Ambasamudram and the Tamil Nadu Legislative Assembly election, with candidates chosen through members' primaries, and contest an election conducted by the Commission within five years of registration (Article 11).

7. Disclosure. Publish the assets, cases and election expenditure of the Party's candidates on the Party website (Article 11(18)). No donation is accepted until the Party's bank account is opened.

8. Volunteer responsibilities. The volunteer public-service responsibilities listed on the Party website are not Party posts. They confer no constitutional office, voting right, executive authority or financial signing authority.
